RESILIENCY: Rebuilding, Rejuvenating, Reigniting, Re-joy-sing!

“For the small child . . . the most important thing in education is the teacher’s own being.” - Rudolf Steiner

Let us be aware that taking care of ourselves is most essential since we are their curriculum! As we focus on bringing delight to the young child through these wonderful gesture games, movement and singing, let us also discover and devote ourselves to the tending and caring of ourselves and the foundations of our own resiliency.

Lynn St. Pierre - Developmental movement & music, handwork, and Spacial Dynamics®

Join us for delightful early childhood activities:

- ~ Loving touch ~ Finger plays ~ Large movement plays ~ Singing for adults ~
- ~ Singing in the mood of the fifth ~ Spacial Dynamics® ~ Making Heavy Babies ~

This intensive is designed for early childhood educators seeking to deepen their understanding and practice of supporting the young child with developmental movement, speech, singing in the mood of the fifth, and handwork all rooted in anthroposophy. We will immerse ourselves in the essence of the Ellersiek work and Spacial Dynamics®. Embodiment of this important and effective work will be our goal.

This session is a stand-alone course or can be part of a 2-year intensive program, email Lynn for more details.
